

SECURITY IS A CAREER WORTH BUILDING

A role in security is not a stepping stone to something better — it is something. At ASP, officers work in complex, high-stakes environments that demand discipline, sound judgment, cultural fluency, and an instinct for public safety. These are the same qualities that define an excellent police officer.

ASP celebrates this pathway — not because security is a lesser calling that leads somewhere greater, but because it is a professional launchpad of the highest order. The officers profiled here earned recognition on the floor before they ever wore a police badge.
